The Warder Public Library, of Springfield, O.

The Warder Public Library is the outgrowth of an institution organized under an ordinance of the Council of the City of Springfield, April 2, 1872, which had been adopted in pursuance of the State law, authorizing and providing for the establishment and maintenance of public libraries. According to the provisions of this ordinance a free public library and reading room is supported by the annual appropriations made by the City Council. The funds are expended by a Board of Trustees chosen by the City Council, of which the president of the Council is a member ex officio.

Under this act the library was first located on the second floor in the Black Opera House building, and opened to the public on June 8, 1872.

The accumulations of books which had passed from one to the other of the various short-lived Library Associations in the city—and of new books, mainly of the then famous Tauchnitz and Bohn collections, aggregating about 3,300 volumes—formed the then Springfield Public Library. At the close of the first year donations and purchases had increased this number to 3,840 volumes. The public interest in the library then quickened. It was soon found that more commodious quarters were necessary to accommodate the increasing patronage. The second floor of the north side of the Union building on Fountain avenue was found not too large, and in August, 1877, it was removed to that place, where it remained for nearly thirteen years, enjoying a generous expansion of increasing volumes and a corresponding patronage.

The present elegant building, now the permanent home of the Library, was the gift of a gentleman, Benjamin H. Warder, who had passed the better part of his life in the city of Springfield. Having accumulated a fortune, he removed to Washington, D. C.; but with that true instinct of gentle blood, ever mindful of and grateful to the city of his earlier life, and desiring to perpetuate the memory of his respected parents, who had also been residents of Springfield, he erected the present structure of architectural beauty and tasteful finish, and dedicated it to their memory. At the portal was placed by Mr. Warder, this:

MEMORIAL TABLET.

THIS LIBRARY HAS BEEN ERECTED IN MEMORY OF

JEREMIAH AND ANN H. WARDER,

BY THEIR SON,

BENJAMIN HEAD WARDER.

IT IS GIVEN TO THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY OF SPRINGFIELD, O.,

FOR THEIR FREE ENJOYMENT,

This suitable and generous act has enshrined the memory of the donor in the hearts of the people of Springfield. It will remain until the last stone crumbles as a monument to his beneficence.

The Library was removed to this new building in May, 1890, where, under the fostering influence of an appreciative public, it has already grown to such proportions that additional room to meet the constantly increasing demands for the best literature is the ever-present problem with the Board of Trustees.

Rules and Regulations.

DAYS AND HOURS.

The circulating and reference departments of the library are open on all week days, except legal holidays, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. The reading-room is open, except on legal holidays, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days, and from 1:30 to 6 p. m. on Sundays.

USE OF LIBRARY AND READING-ROOM.

1. All persons above the age of ten years, of respectable character, and of such orderly conduct and condition as not to interfere with the occupation and comfort of others, shall have free access to the reading-room during regular hours.
2. All conversation and conduct inconsistent with the quiet and orderly use of the reading-room and library, and all use of tobacco, are strictly prohibited.
3. All persons over ten years of age, residing within the city limits, shall be entitled to draw books, upon signing an agreement to observe all the rules; which agreement shall also be endorsed by a resident property owner, who shall be held responsible for any fines, loss, or damage, which may occur. Students attending school or college in the city, and taxpayers on city property, living outside the corporation limit, may obtain books upon the same terms. Blanks for signature can be had on application at the library.
4. Persons residing in Clark county may be entitled to the same privileges by paying one dollar a year and complying with the above conditions.
5. Temporary residents, or strangers in the city, may draw books from the library by depositing three dollars (or the value of the book if exceeding that sum) with the librarian, and paying ten cents for the first week, and five cents thereafter, per week or fraction thereof, until the membership card shall be surrendered, when the deposit money, less all fines and dues, shall be refunded.
6. All library membership cards must be renewed every two years, or sooner upon the death or removal of the endorser, or at the request of the librarian, who is also authorized to extend the time for another term of two years where the previous conditions are known to be still valid.
7. Cards must not be lent to one not a member of the same household. If a card is lost two weeks' notice must be given before it can be replaced; a new card, however, may be purchased for five cents, at the option of the librarian.
8. Change of residence must be immediately reported at the library.

BORROWING BOOKS.

1. Encyclopedias, dictionaries, and other works of reference or books of special value, shall not be taken from the library unless permission be granted in writing by one of the trustees, or by the librarian direct.
2. Books may be retained two weeks and renewed for one week, after which they cannot be issued to the same person, or member of the same family, until they have been on the shelf twenty-four hours. Books labeled fourteen-day books cannot be renewed.
3. Teachers' cards will be issued, upon which six books may be drawn to be retained the usual time. No fiction will be issued on these cards.

FINES AND PENALTIES.

1. A fine of three cents a day shall be imposed for all books retained beyond the allotted time.
2. The person in whose name a card is issued, is responsible for all books drawn upon it, and for all fines accruing upon the same.
3. Any person refusing to pay the fine for overdue book, or taking a book without having it charged, forfeits his or her right to the use of the library.
4. Writing in books, turning down leaves, or any other damage through careless handling or otherwise, shall be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the librarian, by assessment of a fine or withholding the borrower's card.
5. It shall be the duty of the assistant receiving the book, to examine the same, and enforce the above rule in regard to any injury or mutilation it may have received.
6. Books cannot be received from houses in which there has been a case of scarlet fever, diphtheria, or smallpox, during the time the book was in the house. The holder of such book must pay the librarian the net cost or value of same.
7. Whoever intentionally defaces, obliterates, tears, or destroys, in whole or in part, any newspaper, magazine, or periodical, on file in any reading-room belonging to another person, or cuts therefrom any article or advertisement, shall be fined not more than one hundred nor less than ten dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days or both.—Sec. 6878 of Revised Statutes of State of Ohio.

Information for Readers.

The catalogue is arranged in three parts. The first, called the Class catalogue, is arranged according to the Dewey decimal classification. Here books are grouped under the class to which they belong. The fullest information in regard to a book is given in this part of the catalogue, i. e., date of publication (n. d. when no date is given), edition, name of translator, and series to which the book belongs.

The second part is the Author index. Here authors are entered alphabetically, with list of books, without regard to class arrangement, alphabetically under the author.

The exception to this is found in fiction and juvenile fiction, where authors are entered with their works, in one continuous alphabet.

The third part, the Subject index, will enable one to turn at once to the page on which the book or books on the special subject may be found.

Juvenile books are grouped in a separate classed list, the arrangement and numbering being the same as of books for adult readers; in the Author list they are not separated, but are marked with a small j before the class number.

Anonymous books are entered under the title.

The editor, translator, or compiler of a work, is indicated by ed., tr., or comp., as the case may be.

Books marked with a * are reference books, and are to be used in the library.

The schedule of the classification is printed on page 6, and shows the respective numbers belonging to the different classes. These numbers, used throughout the catalogue, are also on printed labels on the books, enabling one to go directly to the shelves and find the book sought.

For books in the German language see the German finding list, issued separately.

Classification and cataloguing were commenced May 21, 1898, the last proof-sheet was read February 17, 1899.
